

7/10/22 – 7/13/22	Sun- Wed	Lecture Exam 3 (Ch 10, 12) Lab Exam 3 (Ch 11, Ch 12)
-------------------	----------	---

- I went to the testing center on the 13th and waited about 3 hours and I got in there to take my test and I was told they didn't know how to get me in to the exam

(I had already spent like 6 hours doing all this because it's an hour trip to my house from the testing center

- I Sent an email telling him the testing center couldn't give me my test on the 13th and so he told me he was extending it till the 14 and I told him I had to work a double shift that day (16 hours)
- He said I could have taken it at home the 13
- I told him I tried at the testing center and wasted 6 hours (which is the time I had planned to take the exams) after that I had to go the hospital with my mom
- I sent him proper documentation and he said he could only give me till the next day at midnight

- I had plans to go take my tests that morning and I had to go to my mom's doctors at the hospital after because we just got devastating news.
- Despite all that was going on I managed to take the lecture exam that day I went to the testing center I tried to go home and take both but all I had time after wasting 6 hours was the one exam because of my mom's stuff at the hospital b
- before his deadline but he told me I had till the 14th at midnight which I got the lecture exam done and I would have taken both the tests at home that day if I had known instead of going to the testing center and wasting 6 hours that I could have been at home taking the exam, but no one told me anything that day and I did what I could to get that one done
- the next day I had a 16-hour shift which I told Mr. Sharpe about but he said work was not an excuse and I understand that but I had planned to take my tests at the testing center and they couldn't give me my test the day I tried to take them so what am I suppose to do get fired from my job because the testing center couldn't give me my test??? No! I have bills to pay.
- I had not planned to not have taken my test at the testing center
- I sent him an email the night I got home from my double shift and told him I was signing in which I was,
- I had to put my nephew back to bed and make sure he was ok because he got up when I got home
- Did I mention I'm taking care of my brothers' child because he is in prison??
- I sent him an email right after at 3:34 am because that was when I realized the test wasn't in the testing tab
- He said he did not get this email and that I sent it to myself. Why would I have sent myself an email?

- I can't help the testing center could not give, me my exam during the time I had planned to take my exams
- I am a very busy person and at that point why am I be penalized because I had to work that next day when they couldn't accommodate me.
- Why is all this even going on?
- Why am I being given such a hard time and being treated like a criminal with bad intentions I'm just trying to pass my class and take my test
- I had documentations for everything
- I should not be given such a hard time when I am just wanting to take my test.

I got the lecture exam done despite all the hours I wasted at the testing center. My schedule is planned to the minute and when I wasted that time at the testing center there is no way I could have done it until the day after my double shift, but he said he would not let me take it even tho I went to the testing center because they even sent him an email stating I was there and that they couldn't give me the exam . How is that fair at all? Now I am beyond upset and discouraged because I am failing because of that 0. I guess can you open the thing so I can retake the course in the fall please, I have no issues in any of my other classes. I mean what would you have done in that situation. There is nothing I could have done differently I am doing the best I can, The thing is he knew that would be what made or break me on failing the course and I even sent him several emails saying I wanted to take it at the testing center when I went to take my next test which is what the agreement was to begin with and he said he would not open the test up ... Why is it so hard to give a student that is trying a chance to pass?

I was doing the best I could do

I sent him an email later on that same day and asked him if I could take it and he never replied, and he seems to think I waited 5 days to contact him about this but I sent him an email the night I couldn't get into the test, so u clearly see I'm trying.

To: Jonathan Sharpe

Can I take it today?

And I sent one at 334 am that same night saying I couldn't find the test in the testing tab

No response to the emails I sent him on the 13th and the 15th regarding this.

Because of this I have a zero and I am now failing the course because of that.,

Can you allow me to sign up for class for fall?

Thanks Jennifer Timms

This shouldn't have even gotten to this point I know
